

Greg Tonnison

After being at the Helm of Fremantle Pilots for the past 5 years - Managing Director Greg Tonnison has served his maximum tenure and will be handing over the role to Stuart Proctor in July 2017 -

During this time, there have been many developments in the Pilot Company including the acquisition of Pilot House and the Fremantle Pilot Boat – “Berkeley”. The Pilot Group has grown immensely over this time.

Greg would like to thank our stakeholders, clients and all those who have assisted and supported Fremantle Pilots during this significant growth period. Greg said, “It has been a great experience and would like to wish Stuart all the best in his new role”. Greg is looking forward to returning to full time Piloting again in Fremantle and will remain on the Executive to support and assist Stuart Proctor during his transition into the MD’s role.

Stuart joined Fremantle Pilots in 2010 as a Pilot and has been in the role within Fremantle Pilots as Operations Director for the past 2 years .

Stuart has over 20 years piloting experience, holding unrestricted licenses at ports in Qatar, UK, and Australia, handling over 5000 vessels.

Stuart has extensive knowledge in maritime operations having previously performed the roles of marine representative, offshore operations manager, and Harbour Master.

He is formerly a member of the Darwin port welfare committee, a representative for the UK Marine Pilots association and is currently a director of the Australasian Marine Pilots Institute. .
Stuart is also an associate fellow of the Nautical Institute.

He said "It's an honour to be given the opportunity to take the helm at such a prestigious West Australian company.

Piloting has changed immensely since I first started with there being now being more than ever a focus on procedures and technology and it's important that Fremantle pilots embraces best practices as ships become increasingly larger and the margin for error reduced."
